

How are deep water marine animals different from those at the surface?

